The interest on the State Debt due on that day will be promptly met, arrangements having already been made by Gov. Porter for that purpose. The Philadelphia papers say "that the Money Market has undergone no sensible change for some weeks. Money is plenty and the Banks discount with freedom, but as business is dull and but few large enterprises are in agitation, the demand is limited. The small bills issued under the new Revenue Law, are generally received by our own banks, and in a great degree, they have supplanted the small notes which constituted our currency from the neighboring States. The no es of the United States Bank still continue depreciated, the discount ranging at 17 a 18 per cent."
